Whitlow vs. Wilson.
 W. Thos. Whitlow, the gentleman who has been making some socialist speeches afternoons and evenings the past week, has a grievance against the city marshal in that the latter would not permit him to speak on the street corner a few days ago. While we do not know of an ordinance against the thing of speaking on the corner, and do not think one could be passed that would hold, still it has been the custom here to have all such meetings held in the park, and we do not believe there has been deviation from this except in the case of the Salvation army people. It really matters little as far as the meeting is concerned whether it is on the corner or in the park, but in case of a large crowd congregating it does make a difference in keeping the streets and walks open. That is the only object of the administration in this regard, while on the other hand Mr. Whitlow in view of the fact that in many places authorities attempt to shut him off by refusing him permission on the street, feels that this is another case like that, but we assure him it is not. Free speech, as long as conducted along the line of decency, whether political or otherwise, must be maintained, and still this can be done, and yet conform to the local regulations for the supposed betterment of all.

Harry Ball of Larned, is here.

Miss Zella Boshell returned to Larned Wednesday after a few days visit here and in Buffalo.

Mrs. C. A. Hooper celebrated her birthday last Monday by inviting in the Double Seven crowd, and they had a mighty fine spread. So fine, in fact that the Rustler man enjoyed it to the extent of almost getting too much of the good things to eat for utterance, hence our delay in chronicling this event.

The south side of the park has been spoiled for band concerts. There is no room for a crowd and it is right next to the dirty street on one side and a plowed field on the other. The dust last night was fierce from the south, and if the wind had been in the north it would have been worse.

George F. Starr and Fred Hans were at Ellinwood Wednesday.

Mrs. H. E. Hays, of Boston, is here for an extended visit with her sister, Mrs. T. H. Butler, of Kansas Avenue.

G. W. Smith, superintendent of the machinery of the Missouri Pacific, was here Wednesday with his special car. Trainmaster Frank Avery, of Holington, accompanied him. Mr. Smith is a brother of Robert Smith, the Santa Fe engineer, who resides here.

Glenn Jones and Miss Esther Bailey of Holington attended the ball here last evening.

The band concert given by the Holington band at the park Wednesday was good and well received and notwithstanding the heavy wind a large crowd was out to hear them. The music was fine and if it had not been so windy they could have put on better music. They could not handle selection books in the wind.
